ABSTRACT

The 58 tests in this bibliography assess an individual's knowledge and attitude toward nutrition, health and food. All age groups are represented. Some tests target nutritional knowledge. The majority of tests include nutrition as a subset of larger issues including medical knowledge, attitudes toward eating, and accessing social or health programs. Each test citation may include the following data elements: AN (a six-digit identification number assigned by the Test Collection); TI (name of the instrument); DT (components within the overall test that assess particular skills or factors); AU (personal or institutional author); YR (year in which the test was published or copyrighted); AV (test publisher or distributor); GL (list of grades for which the test is suitable); TG (list of ages for which the test is suitable); and AB (a description of the test and its purpose). INTRODUCTION

Scope of Bibliography

The tests described in this bibliography are used to assess one's knowledge and understanding of nutrition and foods. Some of the nutrition tests are part of a larger test on health. Tests are described for all age and grade levels.

Availability

Copies of the tests described on the following pages must be obtained directly from the publisher, as stated in the AV AVAILABILITY section of each test citation. Generally, the Test Collection does not have distribution rights for its holdings. However, in special instances, the Test Collection has been granted permission from individual authors to distribute their tests, which are primarily research instruments. The AV AVAILABILITY information for these instruments will be Tests in Microfiche, Test Collection, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, NJ 08541.

Guide to Citation Elements

The following is a guide to the various elements which may be present in a test citation:

AN - Six-digit identification number assigned by the Test Collection

TI - Name of the instrument

DT - Components within the overall test which assess particular skills or factors

AU - Personal or institutional author

YR - Year test was published or copyrighted

AV - Test publisher or distributor; the organization which sells or distributes the instrument

TI TITLE: FAMACT.
AU AUTHOR: Funch-Donna-P; And Others.
YR YEAR: 86.
AV AVAILABILITY: Social Science and Medicine; v23 n3 p337-44; 1986.
TG TARGET AUDIENCE: Adults.
NT NOTES:
ITEMS: 6.
AB ABSTRACT: Instrument to be completed by individuals who are dieting to assess the attitudes and behaviors of members of the individuals' families to their dieting. Respondents indicate whether the actions noted in six statements are applicable to their families. May be used in conjunction with the Social Support Scale (TC 016515) to measure support given to dieting individuals by their families.

AN ACCESSION NUMBER: TC016519 ETS 8911.

AU AUTHOR: Funch-Donna-P; And Others.
YR YEAR: 86.
AV AVAILABILITY: Social Science and Medicine; v23 n3 p337-44; 1986.
TG TARGET AUDIENCE: Adults.
NT NOTES:
ITEMS: 6.
AB ABSTRACT: Designed to measure the supportive attitudes of family members of individuals who are dieting. Items may be reworded to reflect family members' supportive attitudes for individuals experiencing health problems. Respondents indicate on a five-point, Likert-type scale the degree to which they agree or disagree with statements concerning family support. May be used in conjunction with the Social Support Scale (TC 016515) to measure perceived social support of family.

AN ACCESSION NUMBER: TC016487 ETS 8911.
TI TITLE: Binge Eating Scale.
AU AUTHOR: Gormally-Jim; And Others.
YR YEAR: 82.
AV AVAILABILITY: Addictive Behaviors; v7 p47-55; 1982.
TG TARGET AUDIENCE: Adults.
NT NOTES:
ITEMS: 16.
AB ABSTRACT: Designed to assess binge eating severity among obese persons. Measures both the eating behavior of individuals during a binge and the feelings and conditions which precede and follow a binge. On a four-point, Likert-type scale, respondents indicate the degree to which each statement applies to them. May be used in conjunction with the Cognitive Factor Scale, which assesses whether individuals have unrealistically high dieting standards or low efficacy expectations for sustaining a diet. Relationship between both scales may then be assessed. Information on sex differences and internal consistency are included.

AN ACCESSION NUMBER: TC016485 ETS 8911.
TI TITLE: Eating Self-Efficacy Scale.
DT SUBTESTS: Negative Affect; Socially Acceptable Circumstances.
AU AUTHOR: Glynn-Shirley-M; Ruderman-Audrey-J.
YR YEAR: 86.
AV AVAILABILITY: Cognitive Therapy and Research; v10 n4 p403-20; 1986.
TG TARGET AUDIENCE: Adults.
NT NOTES:
ITEMS: 25.
AB ABSTRACT: Designed to measure individuals' perceived control over eating. Consists of a list of 25 situations during which an individual may overeat. Participants indicate on a seven-point, Likert-type scale the degree of difficulty each situation presents to them. Contains Negative Affect and Socially Acceptable Circumstances subscales which allow eating to be analyzed as a factor of mood. Information on internal consistency, test-retest reliability, convergent validity and sex differences included. May be administered before, during, and after participation in a weight loss program to study changes in control over eating as a result of the program.

AB ABSTRACT: This test measures the achievement of objectives related to maternal nursing. It is administered to practical nursing students after completion of a course in nursing care during the childbearing cycle. The areas measured are: antepartum, intrapartum and postpartum, and neonate. Special questions focus on nursing process related to medications and their application to care during pregnancy, delivery, postpartum and newborn care. Patient situations presenting both normal and unexpected findings are presented. Items testing nutrition and therapeutic communication are integrated throughout the test.

AB ABSTRACT: This test focuses on measuring the knowledge of practical nursing students in the areas of anatomy and physiology, normal nutrition, and nursing practice. It is designed to be administered early in the student's program, after completion of basic learning experiences. The following areas are assessed: identifying basic bodily structures and functions, selecting appropriate measures for giving care to patients, and identifying both nutritional requirements and elements of foods. Items dealing with nursing practice include: principles of therapeutic communication, the nursing process, vital signs, body mechanics and aseptic technique.

AB ABSTRACT: This two-part resource instrument considers intercultural business and worker relationships between the manager or supervisor and worker. The respondent is presented, on Form A, with a short, realistic situation related to international commerce to which the individual is asked to respond using a common set of characteristics. These include: verbal and nonverbal communication, diet, clothing, business values and ethics, and work habits and practices. Also included are: work and family customs, beliefs and traditions. Form A helps individuals to assess perceived cultural differences between the American culture and the culture of a foreign country of their choice. The second part, Form B, narrows the focus of the perceived cultural differences between an American manager or supervisor from an ethnic minority or young worker under 21 years old. The manager or supervisor considers his/her own cultural background and that of the worker according to the same common set of characteristics used in Form A.

AB ABSTRACT: This test is part of a series of achievement tests for use in secondary schools offering vocational education. The tests cover: Agricultural Education, Business and Office Education, Distributive Education, Health Occupations, Home Economics, Trade and Industrial Education. Each has approximately 300 items. The tests were developed to measure skills and understandings in specific vocational areas. Individual items measure ability to solve problems, analyze data, recall facts, have a knowledge of principles, react to generalizations, use abstractions in specific situations, and form parts into complete structures. Included in the administration of each test is the California Short Form Test of Academic Aptitude (TC005919-005923).

TG TARGET AUDIENCE: AGE 1-5.
AB ABSTRACT: This instrument contains two scales: a licensing scale and a quality scale. Licensing predictor items have been found to predict overall compliance of child day care centers with state regulations in four states. Quality scale items have been found to predict the overall quality of child day care centers. Together, the two scales measure the following child development areas: administration, environmental safety, curriculum, health, nutrition, social services, and parental involvement. Provided also is the Caregiver Observation Form and Scale, an instrument for recording behaviors of caregivers interacting with children in a classroom setting. Practitioners are cautioned against using the indicator checklist methodology before they possess a full year of data collected on a comprehensive compliance instrument.

AB ABSTRACT: Under development and revision to aid in systematic investigation of an individual's degree of understanding of the tasks associated with being a parent. Preliminary use indicates it may be a good screening tool in the evaluation of foster parents, of people seeking to adopt children, and of parents involved in custody disputes. Can also be useful as a pre- and posttest in determining curriculum needs in parenting programs. Questions are designed to assess a parent's general understanding of tasks involved in being a parent, knowledge of health and nutritional principles, knowledge of child's daily activities, overall approach to discipline, and approach to solving problems that arise with children of different ages. AB ABSTRACT: This questionnaire is to assess a student's knowledge of food laws, government stamps, and grading agencies and their functions. This is one instrument in Evaluation in Home Economics published by the Indiana Home Economics Association. Included in the publication are a variety of instruments appropriate for evaluating to some degree the progress toward attainment of objectives in the several areas of home economics for junior and senior high school students, adults, and out-of-school youth. Along with the evaluation form are suggestions for their use in the following areas of home economics: child development, clothing and textiles, consumer education, foods and nutrition, family relationships, housing and home decorating, health of the family and home care of the sick interpersonal relations, and occupational home economics.
